The entire top of the table was covered with fresh green moss, and in the center a large glass basin of clear water formed a tiny lake, and floating on its surface which was level with the bank of moss around it, were yellow and white water lilies. The punch bowl on the east porch was set in a bed of yellow flowers. An orchestra furnished music throughout the afternoon. Mrs. Merriam was dressed in white embroidery gown and carried a bouquet of yellow flowers. Mrs. Charles Brooks Thomas, who stood with Mrs. Merriam to receive the guests, was also in white and carried a bouquet of white flowers. Mrs. Guilford Dudley and Miss Mary Hambleton served at the table in the dining room. Mrs. Dudley wore a becoming white gown with red roses pinned across the front of the bodic. Miss Hambleton's dress was lavender finished in hand embroidery on the skirt and bodice. Others who assisted Mrs. Merriam were: Mrs. E. B. Merriam, Mrs. J. C. Harmon. Mrs. G. C. M. Sheldon, Mrs. F. D. Merriam, R. C. W. Merriam, Mrs. E. S. Quinton. Mrs. C. M. Sheldon, Mrs. F. D. Hearmant, Mrs. J. P. DeB. Kaye, Mrs. W. N. West, and Miss Meliora Hambleton. Punch was served by Miss Ethel Chase, Miss Mary Burnett, and Miss Edith Connor.

After the reception Mrs. Merriam entertained her assisting friends at din-per at the club house. Mrs. P. C. Clevenger has arranged two parties for her daughter. Mrs. H. L. Green of Urbana, Ill., who is visiting at the Clevenger home. Eighty guests have been asked for a thimble party Thursday afternoon which Mrs. Clevenger will give at her home, 303 West Tenth street. The decorations will be appropriate to the approaching season of Independence day celebrations. Flags will be used in the rooms, and flowers and other decorations will be in red, white, and blue. Mrs. Clevenger has asked the following friends to assist her. Mrs. George Noble, Mrs. D. P. Paxton, Mrs. B. T. Welch, and Mrs. Albrect Marburg.

The A. V. E. S. Senior girls of the high school gave a 6 o'clock breakfast Tuesday morning at the home of Miss Mary Moody. Breakfast was served on the lawn, and those present were: Miss Mary Moody, Miss Hazel Klingaman, Miss Josephine Doran, Miss Dorothy Parkhurst, Miss Esther Lynch, Miss Lora Whiteker, Miss Marguerite Scott, Miss Nina Roudebush, Miss Mildred Jones, Miss Mary Alexander, Miss Lucile Shukers, Miss Lydia Emery, Miss Hazel Kincaid, Miss Frances Ward, Miss Mary Gillies, Miss Ruth Graham, and Miss Louise Culver.

You may not be able to see it just that way now, but I think you will some day—some day when your mischievous, bubbling-over-with-naughty-ingenuity youngsters have grown into the men and women who are always thinking and delye.

After studying about it a sleepless afternon and wakeless night, I have decided that one of the women in the decided, that one of the women in the fire yesterday at a beauty parlor was not so unfortunate after all. The alcohol lamp was overturned and the patron's switch and rat were consumed in the confiagration. It sounds like a calamity, considering the cost of coiffure equipment, but at least until the destroyed goods are replaced the owner will be the coolest headed woman in town. In fact, except for the files, the town. In fact, except for the files, the bald and near-bald should give thanks during the warm weather for their Tuesday from a trip to Chicago.

Though limited as to color and to a very great extent as to material also, modern milliners are past masters in the development of beautiful mourning millinery. This particular specimen of their art was a shape of fine black straw with a high conical crown many folds. At the joining of crown and brim a twist was laid, composed of strings of dull jet beads and folds of chiffon—the latter in alternate in-stances being finely tucked, diagonally. The same combination minus the beads was used for the knot holding the stiff black wings at the side.
